5 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
6 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
7 AT TACOMA

8 CEDAR PARK ASSEMBLY OF GOD
9 OF KIRKLAND, WASHINGTON,

10 Plaintiff,

11 v.

12 MYRON KREIDLER, Insurance
13 Commissioner for the State of 14 Washington, and JAY INSLEE,
15 Governor of the State of Washington,

16 Defendants.

CASE NO. C19-5181 BHS

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS, DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION, AND GRANTING PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO AMEND

17 This matter comes before the Court on Defendants Myron Kreidler, Insurance 18 Commissioner for the State of Washington, and Jay Inslee's, Governor of the State of 19 Washington, ("State") motion to dismiss, Dkt. 25, Plaintiff Cedar Park Assembly of God 20 of Kirkland, Washington's ("Cedar Park") motion for preliminary injunction, Dkt. 29, 21 and Cedar Park's motion for leave to amend, Dkt. 42. The Court has considered the 22 pleadings filed in support of and in opposition to the motions and the remainder of the file and hereby grants the State's motion to dismiss, denies Cedar Park's motion for

1 preliminary injunction, and grants Cedar Park’s motion for leave to amend for the reasons 2 stated herein.

3 I. PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND FACTUAL BACKGROUND

4 Since at least 1995, Washington law has provided conscience exemptions for 5 participants in the health care and health insurance markets. The dispute in this case 6 involves the differences between the conscience exemptions for different market 7 participants, a caveat to the conscience exemptions that health carriers, facilities, and 8 providers do not have to provide services for free, and a new law which requires that 9 health insurance cover comprehensive reproductive health services including abortion 10 and all Food and Drug Administration-approved (“FDA”) contraceptive drugs, devices, 11 and products.¹

12 A. Legal and Regulatory Background

13 For health insurance purchasers, Washington law provides that “[n]o individual or 14 organization with a religious or moral tenet opposed to a specific service may be required 15 to purchase coverage for that service or services if they object to doing so for reasons of 16 conscience or religion.” RCW 48.43.065(3)(a). While individuals and organizations do 17 not have to purchase that coverage, enrollees must still be able to access it:

18 The provisions of this section shall not result in an enrollee being denied 19 coverage of, and timely access to, any service or services excluded from 20 their benefits package as a result of their employer’s or another individual’s exercise of the conscience clause in (a) of this subsection.

21 ¹ The Court will use the term “reproductive health services” in this opinion to refer to 22 FDA-approved contraceptive drugs, devices, and products as well as abortion and abortion-related drugs, procedures, and services.

1 RCW 48.43.065(3)(b). Implementing regulations require each relevant insurance carrier 2 to file “a full description of the process it will use to recognize an organization or 3 individual’s exercise of conscience based on a religious belief or conscientious objection 4 to the purchase of coverage for a specific service.” WAC 284-43-5020(1).

5 Regarding health insurance carriers and providers, RCW 48.43.065(2)(a) provides 6 in part that “[n]o individual health care provider, religiously sponsored health carrier, or 7 health care facility may be required by law or contract in any circumstances to participate 8 in the provision of or payment for a specific service if they object to doing so for reasons 9 of conscience or religion.” Religiously sponsored carriers which for reasons of religious 10 belief offer plans which exclude certain services covered in the model insurance plan 11 “shall file for such plan a description of the process by which enrollees will have timely 12 access to all services in the model plan.” WAC 284-43-5020(2).

13 Finally, RCW 48.43.065(4) provides that “[n]othing in this section requires a 14 health carrier, health care facility, or health care provider to provide any health care 15 services without appropriate payment of premium or fee.”

16 In 2002, the Washington Office of the Attorney General (“AGO”) issued an 17 advisory opinion interpreting RCW 48.43.065 in response to an inquiry from the 18 Washington Office of the Insurance Commissioner (“OIC”), setting forth its opinion in 19 relevant part that “[t]he insurance commissioner has authority to require health care 20 insurance carriers to include the cost of prescription contraceptives as a component in the 21 rate[-]setting actuarial analysis, where an employer raises a conscientious objection to 22 paying these costs directly as a part of that employer’s employee health care benefit

1 package.” AGO 2002 No. 5. The opinion explained in part that “conceptually, OIC could 2 require a carrier include the cost of contraceptive coverage as an expense component in 3 its rate setting actuarial analysis; a more definite answer would have to be tailored to a 4 more specific proposal.” Id. In 2006, the AGO issued another opinion analyzing the 5 extent of an employer’s option to provide employee health insurance without including 6 coverage of prescription contraceptives in response to an inquiry from two Washington 7 State legislators. AGO 2006 No. 10. The 2006 opinion explained that the AGO had 8 reviewed the 2002 opinion, stating in part that:

9 The upshot of our 2002 analysis is that, while employers may exercise their 10 ‘conscience clause’ rights under RCW 48.43.065(3), they may not do so by 11 contracting with a state-regulated health carrier for a benefits package that 12 excludes contraceptives while including coverage of other prescription 13 drugs, or a package requiring employees to pay for their own contraceptive 14 coverage. There may be other, lawful ways in which employers may 15 exercise their ‘conscience clause’ option . . . Perhaps they might also offer a 16 health care benefits plan that does not involve purchasing a health plan 17 from a state-regulated carrier. An Attorney General’s Opinion is not an 18 appropriate vehicle to examine how that might be done as a matter of 19 employment and insurance practices, or whether there would be legal 20 pitfalls in any particular approach. We simply note that the statutes and 21 WAC do not foreclose the exercise of ‘conscience clause’ rights by 22 employers.

17 In 2018, the State enacted SB 6219. 2018 Wash. Sess. Laws 1. Relevant here, SB
18 6219 was codified as RCW 48.43.072 and RCW 48.43.073. Dkt. 20, ¶ 4. RCW 48.43.072
19 requires all health plans issued or renewed on or after January 1, 2019 to cover all FDA-20 approved prescription and over-the-counter contraceptive drugs, devices, and products.
21 RCW 48.43.073 requires all health plans issued or renewed on or after January 1, 2019

1 which provide coverage for maternity care or services to provide the covered person 2 “with substantially equivalent coverage to permit the abortion of a pregnancy.”

3 On September 20, 2018, OIC published a stakeholder draft of proposed rules
4 (“OIC Rulemaking Draft”) implementing SB 6219 for public comment. OIC, “Health 5 plan coverage of reproductive healthcare and contraception (R 2018-10) (R 2019-07),” 7 contraception-r-2018-10-r-2019-07. The draft was available for comment through 8 October 23, 2018. OIC, “Health Plan Coverage of Reproductive Healthcare & 9 Contraception Rulemaking,” September 20, 2018, 10 <https://www.insurance.wa.gov/sites/default/files/2018-09/2018-10-stakeholder-draft.pdf>.

11 The “Coverage required” section of the OIC Rulemaking Draft pertaining to coverage for 12 reproductive health services required by SB 6219 provides in subsection four that “[t]his 13 subchapter does not diminish or affect any rights or responsibilities provided under RCW 14 48.43.065.” Id.

15 B. The Instant Dispute

16 Cedar Park is a Christian church in Kirkland, Washington. Dkt. 20, ¶ 5. In 17 furtherance of its “deeply held religious belief that abortion is the ending of a human life, 18 and is a grave sin,” Cedar Park alleges that it “does not provide coverage for abortion or 19 abortifacient contraceptives in its employee health insurance plan.” Id. Cedar Park also 20 alleges that it “offers health insurance coverage to its employees in a way that does not 21 also cause it to pay for abortions or abortifacient contraceptives, including, inter alia, 22 emergency contraception and intrauterine devices” and that its “current group health plan

1 excludes coverage for abortions or abortifacient contraceptives.” Id. ¶¶ 46–47.

2 Approximately 185 of Cedar Park’s employees are eligible for its health insurance 3 coverage. Id. ¶ 20. Employees are required to sign a statement agreeing to follow Cedar 4 Park’s standards of conduct which include its teachings on the sanctity of life both at 5 work and outside of work. Id. ¶¶ 31–32. Cedar Park’s current employee health insurance 6 plan renews on August 1, 2019. Id. ¶ 8.²

7 Cedar Park filed suit in this Court on March 8, 2019, alleging that SB 6219
8 violates the Free Exercise and Establishment Clauses of the First Amendment, violates 9 Cedar Park’s right to religious autonomy guaranteed by those clauses, and also violates 10 the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Dkt. 1. Cedar Park seeks 11 declaratory and injunctive relief against SB 6219. Id.

12 On April 17, 2019, the State moved to dismiss. Dkt. 25. On May 13, 2019, Cedar 13 Park responded. Dkt. 28. Also on May 13, 2019, Cedar Park moved for a preliminary 14 injunction. Dkt. 29. On May 24, 2019, the State replied to Cedar Park’s response to its 15 motion to dismiss. Dkt. 32. On June 10, 2019, the State responded to Cedar Park’s 16 motion for preliminary injunction. Dkt. 35. On June 21, 2019, Cedar Park replied to the 17 State’s response to its motion for preliminary injunction. Dkt. 38.

20 ² In its motion for leave to amend, Cedar Park informs the Court that since filing its First 21 Amended Complaint, it has discovered that its current employee health insurance plan 22 “inadvertently includes coverage for abortifacients (contrary to information previously provided by the Church’s insurance broker)” and that its employee health insurance plan must be renewed by September 1, 2019, not August 1, 2019. Dkt. 42 at 1–2.

1 On July 3, 2019, Cedar Park filed a motion for leave to amend. Dkt. 42. On July 2 15, 2019, the State responded. Dkt. 43. On July 19, 2019, Cedar Park replied. Dkt. 44.

3 II. DISCUSSION

4 “Federal jurisdiction is limited to actual cases and controversies.” Stormans, Inc.
5 v. Selecky, 586 F.3d 1109, 1119 (9th Cir. 2009). The State argues that the Court should 6 dismiss Cedar Park’s complaint pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1) for failure to allege 7 facts establishing subject matter jurisdiction. Dkt. 25 at 5, 11. The State makes two 8 arguments on this point: (1) that Cedar Park lacks standing and (2) that Cedar Park’s 9 claims are not justiciable because they lack ripeness. Id. at 5. Additionally, the State 10 argues that the Court should invoke the primary jurisdiction doctrine to allow OIC to 11 finalize rules “that recognize []SB 6219 does nothing to affect an organization’s rights 12 under RCW 48.43.065(3).” Id.

13 A. Motion to Dismiss

14 1. Standing

15 The State argues that because RCW 48.43.065(3)(a) permits Cedar Park to refuse 16 to pay for coverage of services with which it disagrees, Cedar Park has not suffered an 17 injury-in-fact sufficient for standing. Dkt. 25 at 12–13. Cedar Park counters that RCW 18 48.43.065(3)(a) does not provide meaningful protection for its rights. Dkt. 28 at 11.

19 a. Standard

20 In order to have standing in federal court, a plaintiff must show that she has 21 suffered an injury-in-fact that is fairly traceable to the actions of the defendant and that 22 her injury is likely to be redressed by a favorable decision. See, e.g., Ass’n of Public

1 Agency Customers v. Bonneville Power Admin., 733 F.3d 939, 950 (9th Cir. 2013). The 2 injury must be concrete and particularized, as well as actual or imminent, not conjectural 3 or hypothetical. Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 561 (1992) (internal 4 quotations and citations omitted). The party invoking federal jurisdiction has the burden 5 to establish standing. Id. Standing is “claim-and relief-specific, such that a plaintiff must 6 establish Article III standing for each of her claims and for each form of relief sought.” In 7 re Adobe Systems, Inc. Privacy Litig., 66 F.Supp.3d 1197, 1218, 2014 WL 4379916, at 8 *10 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 4, 2014); see also DaimlerChrysler Corp. v. Cuno, 547 U.S. 332, 9 352 (2006) (“[O]ur standing cases confirm that a plaintiff must demonstrate standing for 10 each claim he seeks to press.”).

11 b. Analysis

12 Cedar Park’s challenge to SB 6219 is both facial and as-applied. Dkt. 28 at 10–11.
13 “[A] facial challenge is a challenge to an entire legislative enactment or provision.” Hoye 14 v. City of Oakland, 653 F.3d 835, 857 (9th Cir. 2011). “If it does not charge statutory 15 overbreadth, a facial challenge must fail where the statute has a plainly legitimate 16 sweep.” Id. (citing Wash. State Grange v. Wash. State Republican Party, 552 U.S. 442, 17 449 (2008)).

18 Regarding Cedar Park’s facial challenge, the State argues that the standard is the 19 one articulated in Foti v. Menlo Park, 146 F.3d 629, 635 (9th Cir. 2011), that a statute is 20 facially unconstitutional ‘if it is unconstitutional in every conceivable application, or it 21 seeks to prohibit such a broad range of protected conduct that it is unconstitutionally 22 overbroad.’” Dkt. 25 at 12. Cedar Park argues that the Court should apply the 1 overbreadth standard articulated in United States v. Stevens, 559 U.S. 460, 473 (2010), 2 under which a law may be invalidated if “a substantial number of its applications are 3 unconstitutional, judged in relation to the statute’s plainly legitimate sweep.” Dkt. 28 at 4 10–11. It is unclear whether Cedar Park invokes the overbreadth doctrine because it 5 permits third-party standing—“a litigant whose own activities are unprotected may 6 nevertheless challenge a statute by showing that it substantially abridges the First 7 Amendment rights of other parties not before the court”—or for another reason. Vill. of 8 Schaumburg v. Citizens for a Better Env’t, 444 U.S. 620, 634 (1980). Under either 9 standard, Cedar Park fails to convince the Court that it has standing to bring a facial 10 challenge to SB 6219.

11 Regarding a typical facial challenge, Cedar Park does not argue that SB 6219 is 12 unconstitutional as applied to secular health insurance carriers, or in Cedar Park’s overall 13 framing, unconstitutionally impacts secular employers purchasing health insurance for 14 employees in Washington. Therefore, Cedar Park does not make the case that SB 6219 is 15 unconstitutional in every conceivable application. See Foti, 146 F.3d at 635. Regarding a 16 facial challenge for overbreadth, Cedar Park does not articulate that it seeks to show 17 third-party standing, does not cite authority applying the overbreadth doctrine outside the 18 context of speech or expression, and does not analogize authority applying the doctrine 19 and its correspondingly relaxed standing rules to the actions it wishes to take. See Vill. of 20 Schaumburg, 444 U.S. at 634 (explaining that courts permit third-party standing in the 21 speech context “because of the possibility that protected speech or associative activities 22 may be inhibited by the overly broad reach of the statute.”). Cedar Park fails to make the

1 case that it should be permitted to invoke the overbreadth doctrine’s relaxed standing 2 rules. Finding Cedar Park has failed to show it may bring a facial challenge, the Court 3 grants the motion to dismiss as to a facial challenge.

4 Next, the State argues that Cedar Park cannot demonstrate an injury-in-fact to 5 support an as-applied challenge. Cedar Park argues that it will be injured when it renews 6 or selects new health insurance coverage for its employees because it will be forced to 7 pay increased premiums to cover the reproductive health services to which it objects.
8 Dkt. 28 at 11.

9 Cedar Park bases its argument on the interaction of three provisions of 10 Washington law and an interpretation of Washington law issued by the AGO. Id. at 11– 11 13. First, SB 6219 requires insurance carriers to include certain reproductive health 12 services in comprehensive health insurance. RCW 48.43.072, .073. Second, health 13 carriers, health care facilities, and health care providers do not have to provide healthcare 14 services without payment. RCW 48.43.065(4). Third, the AGO has interpreted 15 Washington law to say that “[t]he insurance commissioner has authority to require health 16 care insurance carriers to include the cost of prescription contraceptives as a component 17 in the rate setting actuarial analysis, where an employer raises a conscientious objection 18 to paying these costs directly as a part of that employer’s employee health care benefit 19 package.” Dkt. 28 at 12 (citing AGO 2002 No. 5). Cedar Park concludes that therefore, it 20 “can be forced to provide coverage, payment, and facilitation of the very services to 21 which it objects on the basis of conscience.” Dkt. 28 at 12. Cedar Park predicts that 22 “under the plain language of SB 6219, that is exactly what will occur.” Id.

1 The State counters that because RCW 48.43.065(3)(a) permits organizations to 2 refuse to purchase health insurance coverage for a service if they object to that service on 3 religious or moral grounds and because Cedar Park does not allege that it has invoked or 4 was denied the opportunity to invoke its rights under RCW 48.43.065(3)(a) when 5 attempting to purchase or renew health insurance coverage for its employees, Cedar Park 6 has failed to take advantage of Washington law protection for its religious beliefs. Dkt.
7 25 at 14. The State argues that this failure renders any resulting injury self-inflicted. Id.
8 (citing Clapper v. Amnesty Int’l USA, 568 U.S. 398, 416–18 (2013) (a plaintiff’s injury is 9 not fairly attributed to a defendant when plaintiffs “inflict harm on themselves based on 10 fears of a hypothetical future harm that is certainly not impending.”)). The State also 11 notes that Cedar Park could choose to self-insure but chooses not to based on concerns 12 about cost for which Cedar Park does not provide evidence. Dkt. 25 at 14 n.6 (citing Dkt.
13 20, ¶¶ 39–44).

14 The Court finds that the State is correct that Cedar Park has provided insufficient 15 evidence to support a conclusion that it has been or will certainly be injured by the 16 requirements of SB 6219. While AGO 2002 No. 5 expresses an opinion about how 17 insurance costs may be calculated or charged, Cedar Park has not provided evidence that 18 insurance costs are in fact calculated or charged in a manner to which it has a religious 19 objection, even without invocation of RCW 48.43.065(3). Moreover, AGO opinions are 20 not law. Stormans, 586 F.3d at 1125 (quoting Wash. Educ. Ass’n v. Wash. State Pub.
21 Disclosure Comm’n, 150 Wn.2d 612 (2003) (en banc) (“[t]he Washington Supreme Court 22 has held that ‘an agency’s written expression of its interpretation of the law does not

1 implement or enforce the law and is advisory only.’’)) (internal quotation marks and 2 parenthetical omitted)).

3 In this record, there is no evidence about how insurance carriers have responded to 4 an employer’s attempt to invoke its conscience objections under RCW 48.43.065(3).
5 Without this evidence, the Court’s analysis would amount to an advisory opinion on a 6 hypothetical insurance cost structure or other hypothetical harm. Lujan, 504 U.S. at 561.
7 Therefore, the Court grants the State’s motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction because 8 Cedar Park has failed to establish an injury-in-fact as required for standing.

9 2. Justiciability

10 The State argues that because Cedar Park has not attempted to renew its employee 11 health plan or purchase a new plan since SB 6219 went into effect on January 1, 2019, 12 Cedar Park’s claims are not ripe for adjudication. Dkt. 25 at 13.

13 a. Standard

14 “Ripeness is a justiciability doctrine designed ‘to prevent the courts, through 15 avoidance of premature adjudication, from entangling themselves in abstract 16 disagreements over administrative policies, and also to protect the agencies from judicial 17 interference until an administrative decision has been formalized and its effects felt in a 18 concrete way by the challenging parties.’” Nat’l Park Hosp. Ass’n v. Dep’t of Interior, 19 538 U.S. 803, 807–08 (2003) (quoting Abbott Labs. v. Gardner, 387 U.S. 136, 148–49 20 (1967)). “[R]ipeness can be characterized as standing on a timeline.” Thomas v.
21 Anchorage Equal Rights Comm’n, 220 F.3d 1134, 1139 (9th Cir. 2000). “If a claim is 22 unripe, federal courts lack subject matter jurisdiction and the complaint must be

1 dismissed.” West Linn Corp. Park L.L.C. v. City of West Linn, 534 F.3d 1091, 1099 (9th
2 Cir. 2008).

3 “[W]hen a litigant brings a preenforcement challenge, [the Ninth Circuit has] 4 found that ‘a generalized threat of prosecution’ will not satisfy the ripeness 5 requirement”—instead, a threat of prosecution must be both genuine and imminent.
6 Stormans, 586 F.3d at 1122 (quoting Thomas, 220 F.3d at 1139). Courts in the Ninth 7 Circuit consider three factors when analyzing whether a preenforcement challenge 8 alleging a threat of prosecution constitutes injury: “whether the plaintiffs have articulated 9 a concrete plan to violate the law in question, whether the prosecuting authorities have 10 communicated a specific warning or threat to initiate proceedings, and the history of past 11 prosecutions or enforcement under the challenged statute.” Id. Stormans, 586 F.3d at 12 1122 (internal quotation marks omitted).

13 b. Analysis

14 Cedar Park argues that its claims are ripe for two reasons: (1) because it will be 15 required to purchase a health plan that violates its religious beliefs when it renews its 16 employee health plan and (2) because it faces a genuine threat of prosecution if it does 17 not do so. Dkt. 28 at 13.

18 Regarding the impact of SB 6219 on Cedar Park’s obligations, the State argues 19 that because Cedar Park has not tried to purchase or renew its employee health coverage 20 under the conditions put in place by SB 6219, Cedar Park is asking the Court “to declare 21 rights in a hypothetical case, which the ripeness doctrine forbids.” Dkt. 25 at 15 (citing 22 Stormans, 586 F.3d at 1122). The State also argues that RCW 48.43.065(3)(a)’s

1 continued application would permit Cedar Park to do what it argues it wants to do—2 purchase comprehensive employee health insurance which excludes coverage for certain 3 reproductive health services. Dkt. 25 at 15. The Court finds that on Cedar Park’s first 4 basis, that it will be compelled to purchase a plan which includes coverage to which it 5 objects, the claim is not ripe for the same reasons addressed in the Court’s discussion of 6 standing. Cedar Park has not presented the Court with a concrete assessment of the way
7 the new law will impact its interests. Nat’l Park Hosp. Ass’n, 538 U.S. at 807–08. It may 8 be difficult for Cedar Park to produce such an assessment because of the complex 9 interrelationship of Cedar Park’s right not to pay for certain reproductive health services, 10 the expectation that Cedar Park employees will decline those reproductive health services 11 due to their agreement with Cedar Park’s religious principles, potential uncertainty about 12 the reproductive health needs and beliefs of Cedar Park employees’ spouses and 13 dependents, and the potential that decreased utilization of contraception and abortion 14 coverage would drive increased prenatal and delivery coverage utilization.

15 Regarding the threat of prosecution, Cedar Park fails to articulate a basis to 16 support each of the three required factors for a preenforcement challenge. See Stormans, 17 586 F.3d at 1122. First, Cedar Park’s intent to violate the law in question is not clearly 18 articulated. Cedar Park argues that its current insurance plan does not cover the 19 reproductive health services to which it objects and implies that Cedar Park intends to 20 purchase this same plan for its employees going forward. Dkt. 28 at 14 (“Cedar Park’s 21 current insurance plan excludes coverage for abortion, and plans to continue to offer a 22 plan excluding such coverage when its insurance plan is renewed on August 1, 2019.”).

1 Accepting for the sake of argument Cedar Park’s contention that SB 6219 in effect 2 imposes the same coverage requirements on health insurance purchasers that it does on 3 health insurance carriers, Cedar Park’s intent to purchase a plan that violates SB 6219
4 would still require an insurance carrier to sell Cedar Park a plan that violates SB 6219.
5 Cedar Park does not explain whether it expects its current insurer to willingly sell Cedar 6 Park insurance coverage which violates SB 6219 or whether Cedar Park intends to violate 7 SB 6219 in another manner.

8 Second, a plaintiff cannot satisfy the element of a threat of enforcement by citing a 9 generalized threat that a law will be enforced—the threat of enforcement or warning of 10 enforcement must be particular to the plaintiff. Stormans, 586 F.3d at 1125. The State 11 argues that Cedar Park “does not allege that it attempted to purchase its desired health 12 plan but was told it could not,” characterizing the complaint as implicitly admitting that 13 “Cedar Park has not talked to carriers about what plans they provide.” Dkt. 25 at 15. The 14 Court agrees that there is no information in the record that shows Cedar Park has sought 15 and been refused a plan that complies with both RCW 48.43.065(3)(a) and SB 6219. See 16 Dkt. 25 at 15. As noted, there is also no information in the record that shows Cedar Park 17 has identified an insurer willing to sell it coverage in violation of SB 6219. While Cedar 18 Park correctly notes that Washington law “does not explain how to reconcile these 19 provisions that create an exemption, require continued coverage for the objectionable 20 items, and do not require the carrier to provide them for free,” Dkt. 28 at 11, there is 21 nothing in the record to show that these propositions will be reconciled in an 22 unconstitutional manner, either in general or in the context of specific insurance coverage

1 Cedar Park intends to purchase. While Cedar Park cites a number of laws it believes it 2 would violate by refusing to comply with SB 6219, it cites no communications from or 3 statements of the State which could form the basis of Cedar Park's belief that it will be 4 subject to enforcement. See Dkt. 28 at 14–15.

5 Third, the State argues that because Cedar Park fails to allege it or any other entity 6 has been subject to prosecution or enforcement under SB 6219, Cedar Park has failed to 7 satisfy the history of enforcement element. Dkt. 25 at 16. The State argues that Cedar 8 Park's citation to OIC's authorization of a health insurance plan from a religiously 9 sponsored health insurance carrier that does not follow SB 6219's requirements 10 underscores this lack of enforcement. Dkt. 25 at 16 (citing Dkt. 20, ¶ 57).

11 Cedar Park counters that Washington law functions to permit this religiously 12 sponsored insurance carrier to entirely avoid paying for the reproductive health services 13 to which that insurer objects but will subject Cedar Park to increased insurance cost due 14 to the requirement that Cedar Park's insurance carrier provide coverage for reproductive 15 health services to which Cedar Park objects. Dkt. 28 at 15. Cedar Park concludes that it is 16 thus treated less favorably than the religious insurance carrier. Dkt. 28 at 15.³ While this 17 argument may be relevant to the merits of Cedar Park's equal protection claim, it does 18 not show a history of prosecution or enforcement which would lead a court to authorize a 19 preenforcement challenged. Stormans, 586 F.3d at 1122. The Court finds that on the 20

22 ³ Cedar Park also does not explain why it cannot purchase insurance from this carrier.

1 record before it, enforcement of SB 6219 against insurance purchasers like Cedar Park is 2 only hypothetical.

3 Finding Cedar Park has failed to satisfy any of the elements of a preenforcement 4 challenge, the Court finds no basis to conclude that Cedar Park's claims are ripe. West 5 Linn Corp. Park, 534 F.3d at 1099. Lack of ripeness provides an alternative basis for the 6 Court to grant the motion to dismiss. Id.

7 3. Primary Jurisdiction

8 The primary jurisdiction doctrine permits courts to stay a case or dismiss claims 9 without prejudice when an issue is pending resolution "within the special competence of 10 an administrative agency." Clark v. Time Warner Cable, 523 F.3d 1110, 1114 (9th Cir.
11 2008). The doctrine is appropriate for cases of first impression or particularly complex 12 issues legislatively committed to a regulatory agency. Id. (citing Brown v. MCI 13 WorldCom Network Servs., 277 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir. 2002)).

14 The State describes the OIC's pending rules as making clear or reiterating that SB 15 6219 "does not affect an individual's or organization's rights set forth in RCW 16 48.43.065" and argues that if finalized, the rules "would eliminate any ambiguity Cedar 17 Park apparently believes to exist about how the religious and conscience rights of 18 individuals and organizations will harmonize with the requirements imposed on carriers 19 to provide particular services." Dkt. 25 at 17. Cedar Park counters that the OIC 20 Rulemaking Draft "does not change the fact that RCW 48.43.065 will still require Cedar 21 Park to provide payment for abortion through increased premiums or fees." Id. at 17.
22

1 On one hand, in the Court’s reading, the OIC Rulemaking Draft does not currently 2 specify how an insurer may distribute risk or cost from reproductive health services to 3 which a prospective purchaser objects. OIC Rulemaking Draft. On the other hand, there 4 may be a number of strategies available to insurers to comply with both SB 6219 and 5 RCW 48.43.065 involving different insurance principles and actuarial tools, alternate 6 funding sources, and/or broad or siloed distribution of costs. See Dkt. 32 at 9; see also 7 Dkt. 36, Declaration of Molly Nolette, Deputy Insurance Commissioner for Rates and 8 Forms. It appears likely that a final rule would not enumerate approved strategies for 9 insurer compliance and would simply reiterate, as does the current OIC Rulemaking 10 Draft, that “[t]his subchapter does not diminish or affect any rights or responsibilities 11 provided under RCW 48.43.065.” OIC Rulemaking Draft.

12 Therefore, it is possible that the final OIC rule could aid a court’s decision about 13 whether a religious insurance purchaser’s rights are or are likely to be protected or 14 violated. It is also possible that under a final OIC rule similar to the rulemaking draft, 15 Cedar Park could make an argument that insurer cost distribution strategies which OIC
16 views as compliant with both SB 6219 and RCW 48.43.065 in fact violate Cedar Park’s 17 rights. However, on Cedar Park’s claims as currently structured, it is unnecessary for the 18 Court to invoke the prudential doctrine of primary jurisdiction. Astiana v. Hain Celestial 19 Grp., Inc., 783 F.3d 753, 760 (9th Cir. 2015). Efficiency and judicial economy are the 20 primary considerations in deciding whether to invoke primary jurisdiction. Id. (citing 21 Rhoades v. Avon Prods., Inc., 504 F.3d 1151, 1165 (9th Cir. 2007)). Given the lack of 22 particularity in Cedar Park’s claims as currently articulated the Court finds that invoking

1 primary jurisdiction would be superfluous at this point in the litigation. If the Court 2 makes a different conclusion at a later point, it would consider Cedar Park’s objections to 3 the doctrine’s applicability. Dkt. 28 at 16.

4 B. Motion for Preliminary Injunction

5 “A plaintiff seeking a preliminary injunction must establish that he is likely to 6 succeed on the merits, that he is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of 7 preliminary relief, that the balance of equities tips in his favor, and that an injunction is in 8 the public interest.” Winter v. Natural Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008).
9 Without standing, the Court cannot find Cedar Park is likely to succeed on the merits.
10 Moreover, as the Court has found that on the facts before it Cedar Park has not 11 demonstrated injury required for standing, the Court cannot on those same facts conclude 12 that Cedar Park has shown “irreparable injury is likely in the absence of an injunction.”
13 Id. at 22.

14 In Cedar Park’s reply to its motion for preliminary injunction, Cedar Park argues 15 for the first time that the disparate treatment of church employers versus religious health 16 care provider, religiously sponsored health carrier, and religious health care facility 17 employers constitutes injury-in-fact sufficient for standing. Dkt. 38 at 9–10. Submission 18 of arguments or evidence for the first time in a reply is improper because it unfairly 19 deprives the non-movant of an opportunity to respond. See Provenz v. Miller, 102 F.3d 20 1478, 1483 (9th Cir. 1996). Disparate treatment as a basis for injury-in-fact is also not 21 clearly articulated in the operative complaint and is the primary subject of Cedar Park’s 22 motion to amend. See, e.g., Dkt. 42 at 3; Dkt. 42-1, ¶¶ 59–72; Dkt. 44 at 1. As discussed

1 below, the Court grants the motion to amend. The Court finds that full briefing on this 2 basis for standing in a motion for preliminary injunction or any other motion submitted 3 following a second amended complaint would afford the State the due process protection 4 of adequate notice and opportunity to respond.

5 Therefore, the Court denies Cedar Park's motion for preliminary injunction.

6 C. Motion for Leave to Amend

7 Cedar Park seeks leave to amend to add a specific challenge to the 8 constitutionality of the 'conscience clause' exception in RCW 48.43.065 and to correct 9 two factual discrepancies related to its current employee health insurance plan. Dkt. 42 at 10 1.

11 Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(2) provides that following a first amended pleading, "a party 12 may amend its pleading only with the opposing party's written consent or the court's 13 leave." In determining whether amendment is appropriate, the Court considers five 14 potential factors: (1) bad faith, (2) undue delay, (3) prejudice to the opposing party, (4) 15 futility of amendment, and (5) whether there has been previous amendment. United States 16 v. Corinthian Colleges, 655 F.3d 984, 995 (9th Cir. 2011). Leave to amend "shall be 17 freely given when justice so requires." AmerisourceBergan Corp. v. Dialysist West, Inc., 18 465 F.3d 946, 951 (9th Cir. 2006).

19 "[A] proposed amendment is futile only if no set of facts can be proved under the 20 amendment to the pleadings that would constitute a valid and sufficient claim or 21 defense." Miller v. Rykoff-Sexton, Inc., 845 F.2d 209, 214 (9th Cir. 1988). Leave to 22 amend should be denied when "it appears beyond doubt that the proposed pleading would

1 be subject to dismissal.” Wizards of the Coast LLC v. Cryptozoic Entm’t LLC, 309
2 F.R.D. 645, 654 (W.D. Wash. 2015).

3 Cedar Park’s proposed second amended complaint alleges that the religious or 4 moral right of refusal for health care providers, religiously sponsored health carriers, and 5 health care facilities is broader than the right of refusal for health care purchasers. Dkt.
6 42-1. Cedar Park characterizes this difference as violating Cedar Park’s rights by treating 7 it less favorably than religious organizations which are health care providers, carriers, and 8 facilities, subjecting it to religious discrimination which “results in ongoing harm to 9 [Cedar Park] apart from SB 6219.” Dkt. 44 at 2.

10 The State argues that Cedar Park’s proposed amendments should be denied 11 because the amendments fail to create standing, show that Cedar Park’s claims are ripe, 12 or show that the primary jurisdiction doctrine should not apply. Dkt. 43 at 5. The State 13 explains that SB 6219 and RCW 48.43.065 “distinguish between the functions entities 14 have in the health insurance market—whether they are health care providers, insurers, or 15 employers—and not between religious organizations.” Id. at 4. It is not clear to the Court 16 that this difference does not simply mean that, as the State explained in its opposition to 17 Cedar Park’s motion for preliminary injunction, Dkt. 35 at 20, that when an entity is 18 acting as a health care provider or insurance carrier, it has the right to refuse to provide or 19 pay for a particular service, and when an individual or entity, including those same health 20 care providers or insurance carriers, is acting as a health insurance purchaser, that 21 individual or entity has the right not to purchase a particular service.
22

However, there is some conceivable set of facts under which Cedar Park could show as alleged that the health insurance which health care providers, health insurance carriers, and health care facilities purchase for their employees is exempt from SB 6219's requirements in a way that the health insurance which Cedar Park purchases for its employees is not and that this constitutes a cognizable injury. See Dkt. 42-1, ¶ 64. The Court would require a fully briefed motion to determine whether the primary jurisdiction doctrine would be appropriate on that set of facts. Given the liberal standard for amended pleadings, the Court concludes Cedar Park should be granted leave to amend its complaint.

III. ORDER

Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that the State’s motion to dismiss, Dkt. 25, is GRANTED; Cedar Park’s motion for preliminary injunction, Dkt. 29, is DENIED; and Cedar Park’s motion for leave to amend, Dkt. 42, is GRANTED.
